Background of the Ohio Company of Associates By Irene D. Neu

The Ohio Company of Associates grew out of a petition to “his Excellency, the President and Honorable Delegates of the United States of America in Congress assembled,” framed by Brigadier – General Rufus Putnam, acting for a group of officers encamped at Newburgh, New York, in the last year of the Revolution (1783). Signed by 288 officers “in the Continental line of the army,” the petition reminded Congress of its promise of “certain Grants of Land” to officers and soldiers who served to the “establishment of Peace.” The petitioners asked that the grants be located in the Ohio country and that provision be made for the sale of additional land “to such of the Army as wish to become adventurers,” that is, investors in the frontier. Putnam forwarded the petition to General George Washington, Commander-in-Chief of the American army, with the request that he lay it before Congress, together with his own commendation.

Washington forwarded the Newburgh petition to the Congress of the Confederation without immediate result, but Putnam continued his interest in land in the West. In 1786 he and General Benjamin Tupper drew up a circular describing the riches of the Ohio country and inviting those persons who wished to become “adventurers” to join in an association, with the object of acquiring land there and promoting settlement. On March 1, 1786, at a meeting at the Bunch of Grapes Tavern in Boston, representatives of potential investors from eleven counties in Massachusetts formed the Ohio Company of Associates.

In the course of a year 250 investors acquired shares in the Ohio Company. On 8 March 1787, the Company appointed three associates, Putnam, Samuel H. Parsons, and the Reverend Manasseh Cutler to apply to the Congress for 600,000 acres “northwest of the River Ohio,” to be paid for in depreciated continental currency or in military rights, that is, land bonuses to which veterans were entitled. Acting for the committee, Parsons presented the Ohio Company’s proposal to Congress, without success.

In July, 1787, Cutler, a man with wide contacts in the American states, arrived in New York City (where Congress then met), to try anew on behalf of the Ohio Company for a grant of land in Ohio. Initially he asked Congress for a million acres, but as the days passed he changed his proposal. In the end, acting not only for the Ohio Company but also for a syndicate of New Yorkers that came to be known as the Scioto Company, he agreed to two contracts that together provided for the purchase of 3,000,000 acres, but because the contracts were separate the Ohio Company was able to pursue an independent course.

The contract between the Board of Treasury of the United States (which then administered land affairs), and the Ohio Company stipulated the sale to the company of 1,500,000 acres in what is now southeast Ohio for $1,000,000. The contract acknowledged the payment of one-half the purchase price, the second $500,000 to be paid one month after the completion of a survey of the exterior lines of the tract. Within seven years the company was to provide the federal government an internal survey of the grant “Laid out and divided into Townships [six miles square] and fractional parts of Townships and also divided into Lots,” according to the Land Ordinance of 1785. In addition to the company’s purchase, Congress granted lot (that is, section) sixteen in each township for schools, lot twenty-nine for purposes of religion, and two townships for a university. Sections eight, eleven, and twenty-six remained “Congress lands.” Samuel Osgood and Arthur Lee signed the contract for the Board of Treasury; Cutler and Winthrop Sargent for the Ohio Company.

Appointed superintendent of the Ohio Company, Putnam arrived at the confluence of the Muskingum and Ohio Rivers on 7 April 1788 with a company of men to found a settlement, subsequently named Marietta. While the work of surveying, clearing, and building went on, the company’s directors attempted to raise the remaining $500,000 owed to the government. In October 1789 Richard Platt, a New York merchant and the company’s treasurer, reported that shareholders were almost $300,000 in arrears for their subscriptions of company stock, but had all of them paid up, the company still would have been short of the money that was owed. In addition, trouble with the Indians on the company’s land meant the hiring of guards, the building of fortifications, and the curtailing of settlements. In 1790 Congress accepted a plan proposed by Alexander Hamilton, Secretary of the Treasury, to fund all outstanding federal and state debts, a plan that effectively raised the depreciated currency to par value. Investment in the Ohio Company dried up. In 1792 Platt went bankrupt, owing the company some $50,000.

By that time the directors of the company had abandoned hope of meeting the terms of the contract of 1787. They were unsuccessful in negotiating a reduction in price for the original 1,500,000 acres, but on 23 April, 1792, Congress confirmed the company’s right to the 750,000 acres for which they had paid, and granted an additional 214,285 acres for locating army bounty rights, and another 100,000 acres contingent on their being given in lots of 100 acres to actual settlers – the so-called “Donation Lands.” The company received patents (or deeds) for all three parcels.

“There remains not much to be said of the Ohio Company,” according to Alfred Mathews, writing in H.Z. Williams & Brother’s History of Washington County, Ohio (1881). “When the final settlement was made with Congress its mission was practically closed.” At a meeting of the company held at Marietta in late 1795 and continuing into early 1796, the directors and agents of the company made a final division of land among the 819 shareholders. When the division was completed, each share had been allocated 1,173 acres, divided more or less as follows: one city lot, one three acre lot, one eight acre lot, one 100 acre lot, one 180 acre lot, one 260 acre lot, and one 640 acre lot. Thus ownership of the land passed from the company to individuals, who were free to use or dispose of it as they willed. But a vestige of the Ohio Company was to linger on for many years, thanks to the interest of Nahum Ward.

In the treasury of the company at the time of the final division of its assets was a sum of Georgia’s Revolutionary War currency that had not been accepted by the United States at the time of the Hamiltonian assumption of state debts. Thinking it worthless, the directors of the company failed to distribute it to the shareholders at the time of the final settlement. Ward, who arrived in Marietta in 1810, saw a possibility for profit in the certificates, and in order to gain possession of them bought up shares of the company, which he usually acquired for very small amounts. For years he fought in the federal courts for the government to pay the face value of the currency he held, plus compound interest from the date of issuance. The Supreme Court finally settled the case, finding against Ward’s claim, in 1870, nine years after the claimant’s death. The court’s decision effectively ended the affairs of the Ohio Company.

Scope and Content

The Manuscripts and Documents of the Ohio Company of Associates document the role played by a group of Revolutionary War officers in opening the Old Northwest Territory to organized settlement. The total number of items in the collection is approximately 1,400. Of these, about 450 items were conserved and digitized. The remaining items were inventoried and all the materials are preserved in the special collections department of the Marietta College library, where they are accessible to researchers.

Statement of Arrangement

The collection was arranged into four series, as follows:

Series I – Business Records

Series I consists of 276 items, dating from 1786 through 1805. Included is the directors' book of minutes which was transcribed in a two-volume work entitled The Records of the Original Proceedings of the Ohio Company, edited by Archer Butler Hulbert and published by the Marietta Historical Commission in 1917.

Also included are lists of Ohio Company proprietors, their payments for shares, and the lot numbers of the land drawn in their names; lists of military subscribers to the Ohio Company and records of the sales of military bounty land warrants; deeds to unappropriated Ohio Company land; donation tract deeds; and transfers of Ohio Company shares.

The Ohio Company's financial transactions, from the purchase of office supplies to the payments to surveyors, are documented with bills and receipts accumulated by the directors, treasurers, and agents. Also represented are financial accounts of their dealings with proprietors. Records of land distributed in the Donation Tract (federal government land granted to the Ohio Company for free distribution to settlers) and surveyors' descriptions of the settlers' 100-acre lots are also included.

Series II – Correspondence

Series II contains 80 letters and drafts of letters, dating from 1788 to 1808. The primary correspondents are Manasseh Cutler, Rufus Putnam, and Benjamin Tallmadge, important officers of the Ohio Company who discussed the Company's business affairs. Other correspondents are Ohio Company agents and proprietors.

Series III – Surveyors' Field Notes

Series III consists of 57 field notebooks dating from 1788 through 1817. To assist researchers in locating land in a particular township and range, an index to the notebooks was compiled. Notebooks for the following surveyors are included: James Backus, Ebenezer Buckingham, [unknown] Greene, Abel Mathews, John Mathews, Rufus Putnam, William R. Putnam, Levi Barber, Ebenezer Sproat, Benjamin F. Stone, Anselm Tupper, Levi Whipple, Jeffery Mathewson, Return Jonathan Meigs, Jonathan Stone, and Joseph Gilman.

The notebooks contain the measurements and descriptions of land in the Ohio Company's purchase, which included ranges 8 through 16 in southeastern Ohio. Land in the Donation Tract was also surveyed, and meanders of the major rivers associated with the Ohio Company's land were noted.

Series IV – Maps, Plats, and Drawings

Series IV, the maps, plats, and drawings of the Ohio Company, consists of 21 items. Most of the material is undated, and it includes official plats, as well as rough maps and drawings of buildings. The survey books contain plats of land in ranges 8 through 16 of the Ohio Company's purchase and plats of the allotments in the Donation Tract. Some survey books list the names of the original Ohio Company proprietors in association with their lots, and sometimes state the names of later land owners.

SERIES II – CORRESPONDENCE

Series II/Box 1/Folder 1: Correspondence, 1788

1. Manasseh Cutler letter to Rufus Putnam, February 12, 1788. Letter written at Ipswich, Massachusetts, to Rufus Putnam, with a party of men near Carlisle, Pennsylvania en route to the Ohio Country. Cutler comments on "Mr. Plummer's" account of the area around Pittsburgh, but he has not been down the Ohio River. The letter reports on sales of shares in the Ohio Company (1786-1796). Cutler wants to be informed whether it will be prudent for families to move to Ohio in the spring and summer, He mentions that the Massachusetts Convention has adopted the federal constitution.
2. Jonathan Stone letter to Rufus Putnam, February 27, 1788. Letter from Jonathan Stone, written at Brookfield, Massachusetts, to Rufus Putnam, in the Ohio Country, reports on the birth of a daughter to the Stones and comments on the acceptance of the Federal Constitution by the Massachusetts Convention. Stone writes that he and his family "will be on" to Ohio in the fall, bringing along with them four oxen, two horses, and four cows.

4. Manasseh Cutler letter to Rufus Putnam, April 10, 1788. Letter from Ipswich, Massachusetts, introducing Joseph Prince, hat maker of Boston, who wishes to establish himself at the Muskingum. If he is successful, others will follow; believes it of "great consequence" to the Ohio Company "that we command as much as possible of the fur trade . . ."
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder01_item04_17880410
 5. Manasseh Cutler letter to Rufus Putnam, April 21, 1788. Letter from Ipswich, Massachusetts, recounting eastern fears of Indian depredations in the Ohio Country and detailing an offer from Whitfield Swift to purchase six townships within the Scioto Company lands. Cutler is favorably disposed. He is himself preparing to move with his family and "a large number of others" into the Ohio Country in August. Wants Putnam's opinion and repeats his "solicitations of your kind attention to my son."

 12. Rufus Putnam draft letter to Morris Witham, October 27, 1788. Letter written at Marietta, Ohio, describes Ohio Company purchase in glowing terms and predicts important future for area; touches on neighboring Indians and speculates about possible Indian war; refers Witham to Manasseh Cutler for further information.
 13. Manasseh Cutler letter to Rufus Putnam, November 18, 1788. Letter written at Ipswich, Massachusetts, introduces Daniel Story, a preacher, who has consented to take up residence in the Ohio Company's settlement for five dollars a week and board. Mr. Rogers will not return and Cutler wishes the school to be given to William Dodge. Cutler writes at length of the damage to his reputation by those who criticize his joining the Ohio and Scioto Companies' purchases. He requests that Putnam send him information about the ancient works at Marietta, Ohio, so that he may respond to inquiries from Europe.

Series II/Box 1/Folder 4: Correspondence, 1796

1. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, February 27, 1796. Letter, written at Philadelphia, refers to a Senate hearing concerning an Ohio Company petition; "our prospect of obtaining anything is not very flattering." The Postmaster General suggests discontinuance of mail down the Ohio because of the great expense. "I can say nothing . . . about the sale of our Land." Comments on the transfer of land "from Duer to Craige and from Craige to me [Tallmadge]."

3. Rufus Putnam draft letter to Benjamin Tallmadge, May 21, 1796. Putnam writes from Marietta, Ohio, that he "never had the least expectation of obtaining an allowance [sic] from Congress for the 20 mile squares [of land] we appropriated for public use," but he hopes some provision has been made for leasing the college, school, and ministerial lands. Immigrants are pouring into the western country. The Indians are constantly at Marietta to trade and they behave in a friendly manner at the college settlement. Comments on the "Disorganized Democrats."
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder04_item03_17960521
4. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, May 21, 1796. Tallmadge writes from Litchfield, Connecticut, that he discerns no impropriety in his accepting a donation lot since it will "in reality finally vest in some actual settler," if he does not become a settler himself. Adds that Moses Johnson and some others will soon set out for Marietta.
5. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, May 23, 1796. This letter written at Litchfield, Connecticut, concerning the method of paying Ohio Company surveyors, is an abstract from a letter written three days earlier.

6. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, June 17, 1796. Tallmadge, writing from Litchfield, Connecticut, reports that Moses Johnson, Uri Scovill, and Ebenezer Goss are determined to settle in the Ohio Company's purchase. He gives details of their arrangements with him as to the land and makes special note of Johnson's entitlement to a donation lot, "when he has satisfied you of his residence."
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder04_item06_17960617
7. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, June 20, 1796. Tallmadge refers to the act of Congress concerning the sale of lands on the Ohio; believes that surveying will be in high demand. Congress has not yet acted on leasing the college lands, etc.; a reference to the settlement "up the Hockhocking River." Comments on national politics and President George Washington. Has sent off two wagons with families for Marietta and directs the disposition of his four donation lots.

8. Rufus Putnam draft letters to Benjamin Tallmadge, C[harles] Greene, [Caleb] Strong, and [unknown] Chancellor, July 20, 1796. The letter to Tallmadge concerns a suit brought by Aaron How against Putnam "on account of the dividend which I received . . . belonging to the proprietors in Tupper's agency. "Stone and Mathewson, surveyors, returned from the woods. The letter to Greene asks him to obtain a copy of a bond from the War Office; the letter to Chancellor requests him to transmit the letter to Greene; the letter to Strong asks for a receipt of a transaction concerned with the Ohio Company's first division of funds.

9. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, October 18, 1796. Letter is about Moses Johnson's complaint regarding the donation lot he received. Tallmadge also asks for a deed to his donation lot.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder04_item09_17961018
10. Rufus Putnam draft letter to Benjamin Tallmadge, November 12, 1796. Putnam writes that Moses Johnson's complaint has no foundation, that he received a good lot in the Donation Tract. It is impossible to provide Tallmadge with a deed to his lot in his name; it must be in the name of an actual settler. Comments on Aaron How's suit, which has been postponed. Putnam has been appointed Surveyor General of the United States and has resigned as Judge of the Territory; wishes Judge Gilman to succeed him. Comments on Meigs's account with Ohio Company and on Stone's and Mathewson's work as surveyors.
11. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, December 14, 1796. Tallmadge will give his lot in the Donation Tract to a deserving settler or "for the benefit of the Ministry or some other Public Institution." Comments on the How case and on debts owed to the Ohio Company. "We all feel anxious for the issue of the Election of President" and other remarks on current national politics.

Series II/Box 1/Folder 5: Correspondence, 1797-1799

1. Rufus Putnam draft letter to Benjamin Tallmadge, April 21, 1797. Putnam reports that Ezra Putnam has purchased a share in the Ohio Company from Col. Hammond and that Stone and Mathewson, surveyors, are currently in the woods. "I fear . . . they will not be able to compleat [sic] . . . their contract." If they are not, he will hire additional surveyors, for he is determined to have the surveys completed by spring.
2. Park Holland letter to Rufus Putnam, June 20, 1797. Holland inquires from Boston about the land to which he is entitled. He holds a bond given him by Cushing "to convey such quantity of land as I was entitled to." He also inquires about payment on two notes he holds against [Nathan?] Goodale's estate. Putnam's reply is on the back of the letter.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item02_17970620
3. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, November 6, 1797. Tallmadge writes from Litchfield, Connecticut, concerning Manasseh Cutler's account with the Ohio Company, a statement of which he has received from Putnam.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item03_17971106
4. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, November 20, 1797. Letter written from Litchfield, Connecticut, concerning the conveyance of William Duer's five shares in the Ohio Company to Andrew Craige, who assigned the share to Tallmadge for the use of the Associates of the Ohio Company.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item04_17971120
5. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, December 25, 1797. Writing from Litchfield, Connecticut, Tallmadge reports that, on the whole, Cutler agrees with Putnam's "laborious statement" of his account with the Ohio Company. Tallmadge refers to Richard Platt's books, through which one item of the account did not pass.

http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item05_17971225

6. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, April 16, 1798. Tallmadge, writing from Litchfield, Connecticut, is glad that Putnam has completed the giving of deeds to all the proprietors in Parsons' agency. Comments on foreign affairs.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item06_17980416
7. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, July 28, 1798. Writing from Litchfield, Connecticut, Tallmadge promises to send Putnam all the transfers concerning Duer's shares in the Ohio Company and states that he has always found the United States mail reliable. Refers to Gov. St. Clair's military right and comments on national politics.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item07_17980728
8. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, November 7, 1798. Letter written from Litchfield, Connecticut, refers to Duer's shares in the Ohio Company and to Parsons' and Buell's bond, which "certainly ought to be paid." It is time that the Company accounts be closed. Comments on European affairs.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item08_17981107
9. Rufus Putnam draft letter to Benjamin Tallmadge, November 12, 1798. Putnam, writing from Marietta, requests money to pay surveyors Stone and Mathewson, who have spent eight months in the woods completing the Ohio Company surveys. He comments separately on surveys of house lots "at Hockhocking and opposite the great Kenhawa." Fearing had not paid over all the money he was to collect.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item09_17981112
10. Rufus Putnam draft letter to Benjamin Tallmadge, February 1, 1799. Putnam encloses Stone's and Mathewson's bill No. 4; they have completed their work in the woods. He will have the plans and records of the Company completed "with all possible dispatch."
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item10_17990201
11. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, March 22, 1799. Tallmadge writes from Litchfield, Connecticut, that it is important that the accounts of the Ohio Company be closed. He will write once more to Parsons' heirs, and if nothing can be got from them recommends filing suit.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item11_17990322
12. Rufus Putnam draft letter to Benjamin Tallmadge, July 9, 1799. Putnam writing from Marietta, Ohio, encloses Stone's and Mathewson's last bills in completion of their contract. "The survey of all the [Ohio] Company lands is now completed except runing [sic] out the new house lots at Marietta[,] the mouth of the great Hockhocking and opposit [sic] the big Kenhawa [sic]." Comments on the bond of William W. Parsons and Joseph Buell.

13. William Rufus Putnam letter to Manasseh Cutler, September 3, 1799. Letter written at Worcester, Massachusetts, concerns proposed sale of Ohio Company's remaining lands.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item13_17990903

14. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, September 30, 1799. Letter written at Litchfield, Connecticut, concerns the proposed sale of the remaining Ohio Company lands.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item14_17990930
15. Rufus Putnam draft letter to Benjamin Tallmadge, November 1, 1799. Letter written at Marietta, Ohio, concerns proposed sale of remaining Ohio Company lands. Comments on action against Joseph Buell on the bond of Parsons and Buell.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder05_item15_17991101
16. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, December 14, 1799. Tallmadge, from Litchfield, Connecticut, reports writing to Ohio Company proprietors at Newport, Providence, and Boston and to Manasseh Cutler urging the establishment of a land office at Marietta for the purpose of enabling settlers to purchase suitable farms. Reports on status of Parsons' payment on his bond and also the sale of the common lands that were put into his hand.

Series II/Box 1/Folder 6: Correspondence, 1800-1808 and undated

1. Rufus Putnam draft letter to Benjamin Tallmadge, August 5, 1800. Writing from Marietta, Ohio, Putnam reports that he has finally obtained security for William W. Parsons' bond. The duties of Putnam's public office [U.S. Superintendent of Surveys] have kept him from completing the plans and records of the Ohio Company, and he will be unable to give much attention to them until toward spring. Comments on the affairs of Joseph and Robert Walker, Ohio Company proprietors.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder06_item01_18000805
2. Rufus Putnam draft letter to William Gridley, February 8, 1801. Letter concerns Marietta city house lot No. 606 that Gridley sold to Joseph Buell and which fell within Section 29, the ministerial section; those who drew house lots in this section lost them. The one drawn in lieu of No. 606 is No. 1311 in a Town to be laid out opposite the Great Kanahwa. Buell wants his money back.
3. Rufus Putnam draft letter to Joseph Nourse, Register of the Treasury, April 20, 1802. Letter written at Marietta, Ohio, encloses plat of the Ohio Company purchase, as requested, to form part of a proposed map of the lands of the United States Northeast of the River Ohio. This plat is as detailed as possible without going to great expense. (Plat not included with the letter.) "The Ohio Company consists of 817 proprietary Rights Subdivided in 7 lots each, besides between two and three hundred, chiefly 3 acre lots, which the Company found it convenient to Sell - add to these upward of 900 Donation Lots."
4. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, April 8, 1803. Letter written from Litchfield, Connecticut, refers to Ohio Company's petition to Congress respecting the school lots that were "appropriated" from the Company lands. Tallmadge also has determined to apportion to the proprietors a sum of money in the treasury that belongs to them. If Congress replaces the land for school lots, and also assumes the Loan Office Certificates received from Platt, there would be another dividend.

5. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, July 9, 1803. Letter, written at Litchfield, Connecticut, concerns paying the agents and proprietors of the Ohio Company the sum due them from the Company's treasury.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder06_item05_18030709
 6. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, March 8, 1804. Writing from Litchfield, Connecticut, Tallmadge proposes a way to close his accounts with the Ohio Company, which he desire to do.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder06_item06_18040308
 7. Rufus Putnam draft letter to Benjamin Tallmadge, December 24, 1804. Rufus Putnam, writing from Marietta, Ohio, transmits an extract from the records of the Ohio Company containing the appropriation of 20 sections for the support of schools and religion, together with a copy of an act of the Territorial Legislature authorizing the leasing of lands granted for the purpose of schools and religion, in which the grant of lands by the Ohio Company is particularly recognized. [Neither the extract nor the copy of the act is included].
 8. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, February 6, 1805. Writing from Washington, D.C., Tallmadge discusses the status of the Ohio Company's petition to Congress for restitution of the twenty sections that were appropriated from the Company lands for schools and religious purposes.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder06_item08_18050206
 9. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, February 26, 1805. Writing from Washington, D.C., Tallmadge continues his concern with the Ohio Company's appropriation of land for schools and religious purposes. Sees no hope of action from Congress until next session. If Congress fails to act then, he will abandon the matter.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder06_item09_18050226
 10. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, January 3, 1806. Tallmadge writes from Washington, D.C. that he is still pursuing recompense for the 20 sections of land that the Ohio Company appropriated for schools and religious purposes. He is to testify before the House Committee on Public Lands, but he is not hopeful of a decision in favor of the Company.
http://cdm16824.contentdm.oclc.org/cdm/search/searchterm/mss001_series2_box1_folder06_item10_18060103
 11. Benjamin Tallmadge letter to Rufus Putnam, January 24, 1806. Tallmadge writes from Washington, D.C. that the Committee to which was referred the petition of the Directors and Agents of the Ohio Company have reported unfavorable to the Petitioners, and Congress has agreed. "Our only redress now lies in resuming the land which we appropriated to support Schools and Religion."
 12. Joseph May letter to William Rufus Putnam, October 21, 1807. Writing from Boston, Joseph May says that he was "an original subscriber" to the Ohio Company and was for several years Deputy Secretary. In June, 1794, he sold out his interest in the Company. The letter concerns money matters, only some of which are directly related to the Ohio

Company.

13. Rufus Putnam draft letter to William C. Park, July 8, 1808. In response to an inquiry from William C. Park, Rufus Putnam explains about the house lots that were laid out in Section 29, appropriated by Congress for the support of religion. "At the time Marietta was laid out it was contemplated that exchange of . . . Section No. 29 might be effected," but this had not happened.

14. Rufus Putnam letter to Samuel H. Parsons or Griffin Green[e], undated. Writing from somewhere in the eastern United States, probably about 1789, to Parsons or Griffen Greene in Marietta, Ohio, Putnam recounts the financial affairs of the Ohio Company as clearly as he can discern them. He comments on the confused state of Richard Platt's books and states that recourse will have to be made to individual agents of the Company for an account of certificates, hard money, army rights, etc. that have been paid to the treasurer.
